Independent Foodie Film “Trattoria” Now Available on DVD Nationally

Indie Filmmakers Deliver a Slice of Restaurant Culture in New Film

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.— The acclaimed independent film Trattoria is now available for purchase on DVD through Amazon via Createspace as of Nov. 4, 2013. Set in San Francisco’s bustling culinary scene, the film delivers the delicious contrast of a heartwarming father-son story set in the cut-throat restaurant business. Trattoria’s narrative is peppered with interviews from real restaurateurs and celebrity chefs, including Elizabeth Falkner (The Next Iron Chef, Top Chef), Traci Des Jardins (Top Chef Masters) and Craig Stoll.

San Francisco-based independent filmmakers Jason Wolos and Dawn Rich took Trattoria to sold-out audiences at the Sonoma International Film Festival, Carmel Art & Film Festival, and San Francisco Cinema by the Bay Festival before partnering with digital entertainment curator FilmBuff to release the feature film on VOD in the United States and Canada in September.

“Just as it was for Trattoria’s lead character Sal Sartini, the path to realizing our dream has been a long and strenuous one,” said writer and director Jason Wolos. “But after persevering through the challenges of indie filmmaking and the competitive distribution atmosphere, Dawn and I are thrilled to finally bring our first feature film to movie audiences and food lovers.”

The film stars Tony Denison (Major Crimes, The Closer) and John Patrick Amedori (Gossip Girl, The Last Stand, Jane Mansfield’s Car), with a supporting cast that includes Lisa Rotondi (Jerry Maguire) and Kandis Erickson (I’m Not a Hipster).
